Point:

Knowing Jesus as our God and king should lead us to trust him and not be afraid

Jesus walked on water and when his disciples saw him, they were terrified! But when Jesus spoke and the disciples knew who he is (their God and king), they were no longer afraid. The disciples let him into the boat.

With Jesus in the boat I can smile in the storm
When I'm sailing home.

Read the full story from John 6:16-24

Jesus walked on water and when the disciples saw him, they were terrified! The disciples were terrified because ordinary people do not walk on water. Jesus walking on water shows that He is God – God the Son; he has power over nature. He is very powerful.

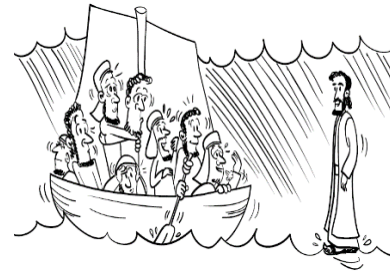

The disciples were terrified, but when they got to know who it was who was walking on water - their Lord and king - they let him into the boat. Instead of being afraid, they knew who Jesus was and had seen some of the things he had done. They knew they were safe with him, and so they let him into the boat.

Even though Jesus is very powerful, when the disciples knew who he was, they did not have to be afraid anymore. In the same way, when we know who Jesus is – God the Son - and how powerful he is, we do not need to be afraid of him. Jesus is the powerful ruler of God's kingdom, but we do not need to fear him if we know him as our friend. We can trust him in all things because he is powerful and because he loves us. We can be friends with him.

Knowing Jesus as our God and king should lead us to trust him and not be afraid. When we love Jesus and know him as our king, we will find it easier to trust him. We can trust Jesus to always do what is best for us, even when we do not understand it now.
