Read Job 38:1-11, 39-41; 41:1-11; 42:1-6, 10-17

After Job lost his children, his property and even got sick, three friends came to visit and comfort him. They thought Job was suffering because he had sinned against God.

Job also had questions for God about his suffering. God answered Job in question form and showed Job that He is wise, caring and powerful; he knew what he was doing.

So Job trusted the wise, caring and powerful God in his suffering. In the end God restored everything that Job had lost.

God reminded Job that his wisdom and power are greater than anyone else's. God's answer helped Job to respond to his pain and suffering in the right way. (Job 42:1-6). Job responded in worship and God blessed him.

Job's friends thought that suffering was a result of sinning against God, but God proved Job's innocence by giving him more things than he had before. (Job 42:10-17)

Job did not get to know why he was suffering, but he was reminded that God is wise, caring and all powerful, so he could trust God in his suffering.

Read Job 38:1-11, 39-41; 41:1-11; 42:1-6, 10-17

After Job lost all he had, three friends and one other young man came to visit him and comfort him. They started talking about Job's suffering and ended up wrongly accusing Job of sinning against God. They believed that he was suffering because he had sinned. Job pleaded with God to defend him and explain himself. This happened in Job chapter 3 to 37. Finally, in Job chapter 38, God spoke to answer Job, but not with the answers Job was expecting. God instead asked Job questions, and these questions reminded Job of who God is and what He is like. The questions reminded Job that God is;

- A Wise -creator (Job 38:4-11)
- A Caring, Loving, Provider (Job 38:39-41)
- Powerful (Job 41:1-11)

God reminded Job that his wisdom and power are greater than anyone else's. God's answer did not answer Job's questions but it helped Job to respond to his pain and suffering in the right way. (Job 42:1-6). Job responded in worship and God blessed him.

Job's friends thought that suffering was a result of sinning against God, but God proved Job's innocence by giving him more things than he had before. (Job 42:10-17)
